On National Pizza Day, Governor Ned Lamont declared Connecticut the “Pizza Capital of America” and that accolade could not be more fitting for Greater New Haven. New Haven-style pizza is a media darling, garnering the attention of the New York Times, Good Morning America, the New Yorker, Bloomberg, and Pizza Today. Proof of the power of pizza, each of the 15 towns in the region is home to at least one pizza parlor offering a variety of pie styles.

Apizza has captured the hearts and palates of locals and visitors alike. Pronounced “ah-beetz” by aficionados, apizza represents more than just a style of pizza—it’s a beloved tradition, a culinary heritage, and a testament to the rich Italian-American influence that permeates the region. From its humble origins to its status as a cultural icon, apizza continues to reign supreme in Greater New Haven, offering a truly authentic and unforgettable dining experience. From the historic pizzerias that have been serving up pizza for generations to the innovative newcomers putting their own spin on tradition, there’s no shortage of options to satisfy your pizza cravings.

What sets apizza apart from its better-known counterparts is its distinct style and preparation. Characterized by a thin, crispy crust, slightly charred edges, and a minimalist approach to toppings, apizza emphasizes simplicity and quality ingredients above all else.

The hallmark of true apizza lies in its delicate balance of flavors—the tangy tomato sauce, the creamy mozzarella cheese, and perhaps a sprinkling of grated Pecorino Romano or a drizzle of extra-virgin olive oil—all coming together to create a symphony of taste that is both comforting and indulgent.

One of the most iconic destinations for apizza is Wooster St. in New Haven. Home to Frank Pepe Pizzeria Napoletana, Sally’s Apizza, and Zeneli’s. Pepe’s was founded in 1925 by Italian immigrant Frank Pepe, and this legendary establishment has become synonymous with apizza excellence, drawing pizza enthusiasts from near and far to savor its signature pies, including the renowned White Clam Pizza—a delectable combination of fresh clams, garlic, olive oil, and grated cheese atop a perfectly blistered crust.

But Pepe’s is just one of many revered apizza joints in the region. Zuppardi’s, Modern Apizza, and Bar are among the other venerable institutions that have contributed to the region’s apizza legacy, each offering its own unique take on this beloved dish. Whether you prefer your apizza topped with traditional ingredients like pepperoni and sausage or crave something more adventurous like clams or mashed potato, you’ll find no shortage of options to satisfy your pizza cravings in Greater New Haven.
Welcome to vibrant and culturally rich Greater New Haven, a true hub of art that caters to every taste and preference. As the proud home of Yale University, we are privileged to have access to world-class collections often made available to the public free of charge. These collections comprise millions of paintings, sculptures, coins, books, and manuscripts that are sure to leave you awe-inspired.

For a truly exceptional experience, we recommend starting your art journey at the Yale University Art Gallery. The gallery showcases an impressive selection of paintings and sculptures by iconic artists like Josef Albers, Edgar Degas, Joan Miró, Piet Mondrian, Pablo Picasso, Mark Rothko, and Roy Lichtenstein, to name a few. Additionally, smaller galleries throughout the region offer a diverse range of locally created paintings, pottery, sculpture, and jewelry. The Yale Center for British Art is undergoing renovation and will reopen to visitors in 2025.

You can also look forward to annual events celebrating art and its profound impact on our lives. The International Festival of Arts & Ideas, a two-week extravaganza held in June, brings together artists from around the world to showcase their talents. The theme of the 2024 festival is “Be the Change. Be Changed.” and will continue to feature free musical headliners on the New Haven Green. In July, the Guilford Art Center hosts Craft Expo, a must-attend event that showcases the works of 180 nationally recognized American artists.

Theater in Greater New Haven is equally diverse, ranging from traditional to avant-garde. The Shubert Theatre is renowned for its Broadway hits and special events. Long Wharf Theatre, now an itinerant theater, brings performances throughout the city, while the Yale Repertory Theatre produces many original plays that explore contemporary themes.

Music enthusiasts can enjoy live performances by the New Haven Symphony Orchestra or rock out at the Westville Music Bowl or College Street Music Hall.

We invite you to experience the art and culture of Greater New Haven, a place where creativity knows no bounds. Come and immerse yourself in the beauty and diversity of our vibrant community.

When we talk about history in Greater New Haven, we typically start in the 1600s. This year we are going back further in time, about four billion years.

The Yale Peabody Museum reopened in 2024 after four years dedicated to an extensive renovation and expansion project. Thanks to a generous donation of $160 million, the museum has undergone a complete transformation with new classrooms, expanded collection areas, and 50% more gallery space. Founded in 1866, the museum now boasts a light-filled, accessible, and interactive space that will support research and serve as a valuable community resource for sharing scientific knowledge.

Inside the museum, visitors will discover an impressive collection of fossils, minerals, birds, mammals, fishes, amphibians, reptiles, and historical scientific instruments. With the museum’s expansion, it will now be able to showcase more of its 14 million specimens and objects.

A crowd favorite, the Great Hall of Dinosaurs is showcasing new fossil material, including the first discovered specimens of Brontosaurus, Stegosaurus, and Triceratops in dynamic poses beneath Rudolph Zallinger’s acclaimed “The Age of Reptiles” mural. During the renovation closure, the 150-million-year-old Brontosaurus underwent a thorough cleaning and was accurately re-mounted, resulting in a more lifelike and dynamic display.

The Peabody Museum’s conservation efforts ensure that these invaluable resources can be passed on to future generations, providing insights into the processes that shape our world and the interconnectedness of life. There has never been a better or more relevant time to visit the Yale Peabody Museum.
HISTORIC SITES AND MUSEUMS

The Amistad, Long Wharf, New Haven. The Amistad is Connecticut’s flagship and a replica of the original schooner. In 1839, Mende captives from Sierra Leone took control of the ship but could not navigate back to Africa. After being jailed in New Haven, the U.S. Supreme Court ultimately heard
Amistad Freedom Schooner Discovering Amistad
Long Wharf Pier, New Haven

The Amistad, a 129’ re-creation (of the original ship) was built in 2000 and commemorates the historic 1839 Amistad Uprising. During this famous incident, 53 kidnapped West Africans organized an uprising and eventually won their freedom in the US Supreme Court. The ship is used as a “floating classroom” to teach the lessons of the Amistad Uprising to advance social justice today.

Discovering Amistad engages children, adults and families in a discovery process to explore the story of The Amistad and its impact on Connecticut and the nation. The ship’s homeport is New Haven CT; and it also travels to other CT ports down the Long Island Sound.

Grove Street Cemetery (1796), 227 Grove St., New Haven. A National Historic Landmark, the cemetery has an architecturally prominent Egyptian Revival gateway entrance facing High Street. Eminent people buried there include Noah Webster, Gen. David Humphreys, Roger Sherman, Charles Goodyear, Walter Camp, and Bart Giamatti. 203-787-1443, grovestreetcemetery.org

Henry Whitfield State Museum (c.1639), 248 Old Whitfield St., Guilford. The oldest house in Connecticut, this unusual stone building was constructed in 1639 for Henry Whitfield. The Whitfield House features 17th-19th century furnishings and artifacts. A stroll around the landscaped grounds features extensive stone walls, a bronze statue representing Henry Whitfield, and a ship’s cannon from the War of 1812. 203-453-2457, ctvisit.com/listings/henry-whitfield-state-museum

New Haven Green, Bordered by College, Chapel, Church, and Elm Sts., New Haven. A National Historic Landmark, the Green is one of the nine squares in America’s first planned city. The Green provides a backdrop for three historic churches that are outstanding examples of Gothic, Federal, and Georgian design.

New Haven Museum, 114 Whitney Ave., New Haven. The museum features several permanent exhibitions, including the New Haven Gallery, which displays the Eli Whitney Cotton Gin; the Amistad Gallery, showcasing Nathaniel Joselyn’s Cinque Portrait; the Ingersoll Room, featuring Linda Lindroth’s oversized Polaroid colorful portraits; and the Maritime Gallery with additional temporary exhibitions. One of the current exhibitions, “Shining Light on Truth,” highlights the crucial role of enslaved and free Black people in New Haven and at Yale. It celebrates Black resistance and community building and sheds light on knowledge that has been kept alive in archives and memory for over three centuries, even when the dominant culture chooses to ignore, bury, or forget. 203-562-4183, newhavenmuseum.org

Pardee-Morris House, 325 Lighthouse Rd., New Haven. One of New Haven’s oldest structures, the property descended in one family through seven generations. The original 1671 house was burned during the 1779 British invasion and reconstructed in 1780. Open Sundays 12-4 p.m. in the summer. Admission is free. 203-562-4183, newhavenmuseum.org/visit/pardee-morris-house/

Whatever You Choose, You Won’t Walk Away Hungry

Greater New Haven covers just 369 square miles, but our cuisine will take you around the world. New Haven’s history of welcoming immigrants translates into a culinary feast that covers five continents. Try Lalibela’s Ethiopian menu or the best of Thailand at Mai Tai Restaurant. Sample Afro-Cuban cuisine at Soul de Cuba or Latin American fusion at Pacifico. The Union League Café is a French favorite, and Lúdál Italian Restaurant is an elegant Italian trattoria. Jalapeño Heaven specializes in Mexican dishes, while The Wharf serves up New American cuisine. This list is just an appetizer of the culinary choices waiting for you throughout the region.

Don’t forget to order drinks! Established wineries include Chamard, Gouveia, Paradise Hills, Savino, Rose, and Rosabianca. Beer flows throughout the region as well. Among the most popular breweries are Stony Creek Brewery in Branford, with seating overlooking the Branford River, and New Haven’s own East Rock Brewing Company.

New Haven is best known, of course, as the home of pizza. Rivals Sally’s Apizza and Frank Pepe Pizzeria Napoletana go up against other hometown favorites like Modern Apizza, BAR, Zuppardi’s Apizza, and Zeneli Pizzeria & Cucina Napoletana. Visit a few and judge for yourself which one serves up the best slice.

Connecticut’s rich farmland means many of our restaurants have embraced local produce. Menus vary with the seasons as our imaginative chefs integrate fresh ingredients into both new and traditional recipes. You can buy fresh yourself at pop-up farmers’ markets and shops like Bishop’s Orchards Farm Market in Guilford and Hindinger Farm in Hamden.

A full day of sightseeing should include a break for refreshments, too. Check out the many coffee shops, ice cream parlors, and small cafes along the way, including the top-rated Arethusa Farm Dairy in New Haven, Ashley’s Ice Cream in Branford, New Haven, and Guilford, and Willoughby’s Coffee & Tea in New Haven, Branford, and Madison, among others.

IMPORTANT CONNECTICUT LAWS FOR VISITORS

Cell Phone Usage in Motor Vehicles
Connecticut law requires drivers 18 years of age and older to use hands-free accessories to legally use a cell phone or mobile electronic device while operating a motor vehicle. Under the law, drivers 16 or 17 years of age are prohibited from using any mobile telephone, including phones with hands-free accessories, while driving.

Also, no person shall use a hand-held mobile telephone or other electronic device or type, read, or send a text or a text message with or from a mobile telephone while operating a motor vehicle.

Liquor Laws
The legal drinking age in Connecticut is twenty-one.

Seat Belts and Child Restraint Systems
Connecticut law states (1) Infants must remain rear-facing until they are a minimum of both two years and 30 pounds; (2) Toddlers must be in a forward-facing car seat with a 5-point harness until five years and 40 pounds; (3) Children should ride in a booster until they reach eight years old AND 60 pounds (they must meet both requirements); and (4) children, tweens, and teens must be in a seat belt whenever they ride in a vehicle.

Further Recommended: Children should ride in the back seat until they are 13 years old. All people and objects should be properly restrained whenever they are in a vehicle. Children who ride

The rise of remote and hybrid work models has created new possibilities for employees seeking flexibility in their living arrangements. With access to rail services connecting to major cities such as New York, Boston, and Hartford, Greater New Haven offers an ideal location for those who want to work in these cities while enjoying the benefits of suburban living. One of the standout advantages of living in this area is the significant savings on rental costs, which can be up to 50% less than what you’d pay in Manhattan - according to data from September 2023 provided by rentcafe.com. Greater New Haven is a practical option to enhance your quality of life while pursuing your professional goals.
The region’s six colleges and universities, including the prestigious Yale University, are renowned for their focus on innovation, research, and development. This emphasis on a knowledge-based economy and access to global thought leaders makes the region an ideal location for entrepreneurs. Yale University, with its cutting-edge research and state-of-the-art facilities, has been a catalyst for successful spin-offs, particularly in bioscience. The National Institute of Health, a significant funder of research studies in the region, has provided a substantial $2.8 billion for R&D in the past five years.

The region’s healthcare sector is experiencing significant growth. Both Yale New Haven Health and Hartford Healthcare are expanding their presence, anticipating the need for additional healthcare services as the population ages. They are also embracing new technologies, such as telehealth, to enhance service delivery. Notably, Yale New Haven Health is investing in a new Neuroscience Institute in New Haven, a project expected to cost $838 million.

Investment in new commercial and residential development is on the rise, with many developers returning to the region after experiencing a strong return on previous investments. The demand for residential and bioscience space is expected to remain steady in the foreseeable future.

Connecticut’s manufacturing sector continues to thrive, bolstering the state’s economy and creating numerous job opportunities. The state’s success is evident in its diverse range of manufacturing sectors, including aerospace, defense, biotech, and advanced manufacturing. The region’s skilled workforce, strategic location, and supportive business environment have attracted investments from both domestic and international companies, driving growth and competitiveness in the manufacturing sector. Ongoing initiatives and partnerships aimed at promoting workforce development and fostering collaboration between industry and academia further enhance Connecticut’s position as a hub for manufacturing excellence.
We offer a wide selection of event space ideal for corporate and non-profit meetings, conferences, workshops, or large-scale events. Located just minutes from downtown Hamden, our state-of-the-art facilities offer guests an exceptional setting, free parking, and dedicated staff to make your event a success. We have everything you need, here at Southern.

Employment in New Haven County

Greater New Haven is fortunate to have five solid sectors supporting our economy: healthcare, higher education, bioscience, manufacturing, and arts, culture, and tourism. These industries, and others, are actively seeking employees. While there are career opportunities in most fields, registered nurses are the most in-demand occupation.

Many employers continue to offer hybrid work environments, as well as schedule adjustments to accommodate child/eldercare, transportation, and other barriers to workforce participation.

The healthcare industry in Greater New Haven stands as a cornerstone of both economic vitality and community well-being. The region has an extensive range of healthcare facilities, including respected academic medical centers. These institutions are among the most innovative and dynamic in the Northeast.

Yale New Haven Hospital and the Yale School of Medicine are world-renowned for their exceptional patient care and attract patients from all over the region. These institutions receive significant funding for research initiatives, which not only contribute to medical knowledge but also stimulate innovation and entrepreneurship in the local biotechnology industry.

To address workforce needs, Yale New Haven Health and four local universities help eligible students enroll in nursing programs. Fairfield, Quinnipiac, and Southern Connecticut State universities, along with Gateway Community College, aim to produce at least 557 more nurses over the next four years. A $10 million grant will also train 1,250 patient care associates/technicians during this period at Yale New Haven Hospital. The program participants are full-time employees who receive pay and benefits.

In an initiative designed to streamline care, Yale New Haven Health has launched an at-home infusion pharmacy program to provide eligible patients with IV drug and nutritional therapies. Additionally, the Visiting Nurse Association Community Healthcare & Hospice has partnered with Yale New Haven Health to enhance its ability to provide high-quality home health services. Yale Medicine and Masonicare have opened comprehensive orthopedic services on Masonicare’s Wallingford campus, providing access to Yale Medicine physician specialists in surgical and non-surgical interventions.

Hartford Healthcare has a significant presence in the region, with two Primary Care locations, eight Specialty Care locations, and six Urgent Care/Walk-in locations. The VA Connecticut Healthcare System provides inpatient care for veterans.

As Greater New Haven continues to evolve, its healthcare sector remains steadfast in its mission to promote health equity, foster innovation, and enhance the overall quality of life for its residents.
The thriving bioscience industry in Greater New Haven is truly remarkable. With Yale’s scientific research serving as an anchor, the cluster encompasses both large pharmaceutical companies and small startups developing new drugs, therapies, and medical devices. The South Central Connecticut region has a strong focus on bioscience and is supported by highly skilled scientists and technicians.

This region is home to advanced bioscience research institutions, including Yale University and Yale New Haven Health System, which are at the forefront of medical advances. Biotech and pharmaceutical companies are committing to this region to develop new treatments, particularly for rare diseases. The location’s proximity to New York City and Boston encourages extensive collaboration, which further fuels innovation.

More lab space for bioscience companies is being developed, especially for those ready to move into graduate space without a long-term lease. Our major construction projects, such as 101 College Street, 275 South Orange Street, Parcel B at Downtown Crossing, and Science Park, are a testament to our commitment to providing top-notch facilities and resources to the bioscience industry.

Personalized medicine, in particular, is a significant growth opportunity for the region. The Yale Center for Genomic Health is tackling the most pressing challenge in the field: how to translate increasingly powerful genomic technologies and vast data resources into meaningful improvements in healthcare in a way that equitably benefits people of all ancestry groups and ethnicities.
Higher education plays a vital role in the cultural and economic vitality of Greater New Haven. The region boasts six esteemed colleges and universities, including the world-renowned Yale University, known for its academic excellence and intellectual rigor.

These institutions attract exceptional faculty and students, fostering a vibrant environment of innovation and creativity. They offer diverse higher education options, ranging from liberal arts colleges to technical institutes and community colleges, providing individuals with tailored education to achieve their career aspirations.

Colleges and universities serve as catalysts for economic growth, driving innovation, research, and development. They create highly skilled jobs, attract businesses, and stimulate economic growth, often leading to the development of new technologies and industries.

Greater New Haven’s higher education institutions are a talent pipeline, producing graduates equipped with the skills and knowledge required by the evolving job market, attracting businesses seeking a skilled workforce. Greater New Haven’s colleges and universities offer numerous career opportunities, with over 30,000 employees across various technical, administrative, and scholarly positions.

Moreover, these institutions provide a wealth of cultural resources to Greater New Haven, with museums, theaters, and art galleries enhancing the cultural landscape and offering access to world-class performances, exhibits, and intellectual discussions.

Local college students actively engage with the community through outreach programs, partnerships, and collaborative initiatives, contributing to community development, addressing local challenges, and promoting social responsibility among students.

The manufacturing sector in our region is varied and includes companies that specialize in producing precision instruments for medical and aerospace industries, security systems, specialty chemicals, and fixtures in metals, plastics, and other materials. They use various technologies and processes, including additive manufacturing and 3D printing to traditional stamping and machine tooling, and more. Some of these businesses have been operating as family-owned companies for over five generations, while others are multinational corporations.

Connecticut is proactively preparing its workforce for the integration of modern technology in manufacturing. Initiatives like Connecticut’s Industry 4.0 Working Group aim to coordinate between businesses, higher education, and state leaders to ensure the state has a trained workforce to meet the needs of small and mid-sized manufacturing businesses.

The Connecticut Department of Labor projects a significant increase in occupations related to industrial, mechanical, and electronics engineering by 2030. The demand for STEM graduates and technicians with certifications in fields like mechatronics is expected to rise offering career opportunities for manufacturing professionals.

MATCH is a manufacturing training program in New Haven that offers bilingual training and pays trainees while they are training. The program is specifically designed to cater to the needs of various individuals, including women, high school graduates entering the workforce, unemployed New Haven residents, New Haven residents of color, and re-entry residents. It also offers assistance in financial literacy, housing, and energy, and career-building services to enhance employability.

Skill Up for Manufacturing is a program by Workforce Alliance and Gateway Community College. It guides unemployed and underemployed individuals into entry-level manufacturing roles in just 5 weeks. The program provides hands-on experience, potential employer interactions, a cash stipend, 175 pre-apprenticeship hours, Six Sigma certification, and an OSHA 10 safety card.

Some of the leading manufacturing employers in our region include BYK, Amphenol, Edgewell, Honeywell, Sargent/Assa Abloy, Ulbrich Steel, and Athletic Brewing.
The flourishing creative economy and tourism industry in Greater New Haven are fueled by its rich cultural heritage, strategic location, prestigious educational institutions, and supportive community infrastructure. By embracing creativity and collaboration, the region continues to attract visitors, stimulate economic growth, and enrich the social fabric of the community.

The area’s exceptional history and vibrant arts scene serve as a magnet for creative individuals and visitors alike. From world-class museums to local galleries, theaters, and music venues, Greater New Haven offers a variety of experiences that cater to all tastes and interests. This rich environment fosters creativity and innovation, attracting artists, performers, and entrepreneurs who contribute to the dynamic creative economy of the region.

Greater New Haven’s strategic location between major metropolitan areas such as New York City and Boston makes it easily accessible to tourists seeking a weekend getaway. With convenient transportation links, including Amtrak and major highways, the region is well-positioned to attract visitors from neighboring cities and beyond. Additionally, its proximity to scenic natural attractions such as Long Island Sound and Sleeping Giant State Park enhances its appeal as a tourist destination, offering recreational opportunities for outdoor enthusiasts.

The presence of prestigious educational institutions like Yale University adds to Greater New Haven's allure. The university’s renowned academic programs, research initiatives, and events contribute to the area’s intellectual vibrancy and attract scholars, students, and visitors from around the world. Additionally, the university serves as a catalyst for innovation and entrepreneurship, fostering collaboration between academia, industry, and the arts to drive economic growth and creativity in the region.

The locals are committed to supporting small businesses, creative startups, and cultural initiatives to nurture the creative economy and tourism sector. Local government agencies, business organizations, and community groups work collaboratively to provide resources, funding, and infrastructure to support the growth of creative industries and tourism-related businesses. Initiatives such as ethnic festivals, artisan markets, and public art projects further enhance the region’s vibrancy and attract visitors from near and far.
Quantum computing represents a paradigm shift in computational capabilities, promising to revolutionize numerous industries by tackling complex problems at an unprecedented speed. From factoring large numbers to simulating quantum systems and optimizing intricate processes, quantum computing holds the key to solving challenges that classical computers struggle with. This includes crucial areas such as cryptography, drug discovery, logistics, and materials science.

Greater New Haven is leading the quantum computing revolution in Connecticut. Yale University and the University of Connecticut are working hand-in-hand on a joint initiative, QuantumCT, to advance Connecticut’s position as a center of excellence in quantum and accelerate the adoption of quantum technologies in Connecticut and beyond.

The QuantumCT Team is collaborating with broad coalitions of partners from business, academia, government, the nonprofit and innovation community to lay the groundwork for expansive, equitable economic development – promising to fundamentally change how we live, work, and communicate with each other.

Quantum science has catalyzed technologies that touch every aspect of our daily lives, paving the way for remarkable innovations with profound implications on society. Drawing on research excellence at Yale and UConn and a growing innovation ecosystem, QuantumCT is creating a national competitive advantage in an emerging technology domain. Quantum technology has the potential to transform hundreds of applications, from smartphones and navigation systems to drug therapy and advanced computers. This technology will impact key economic drivers in the region, including life sciences, healthcare, and manufacturing. By harnessing the research prowess of Yale and UConn and fostering a vibrant innovation ecosystem, QuantumCT aims to establish a competitive advantage for the nation in quantum technology.
Workforce

The Greater New Haven area is renowned for its steady stream of college graduates, yet ensuring a high-quality and inclusive workforce pipeline remains a top priority for the region and the state. Spearheading this effort, the Governor’s Workforce Council is implementing measures such as Regional Sector Partnerships (RSP), targeting key industries, including healthcare, bioscience, manufacturing, and STEM. These partnerships aim to address workforce shortages by offering training, engaging employers, and fostering innovation. With a dynamic job market and opportunities in prestigious institutions, advanced manufacturing, tech-driven industries, and cultural organizations, Greater New Haven provides a fertile ground for both seasoned professionals and recent graduates to pursue fulfilling careers.

STARTING A CAREER

Collaboration among colleges, universities, Workforce Alliance, and local boards of education is preparing students for existing and future jobs. Program development is created in concert with employers, government agencies, and local municipalities. While Greater New Haven is best known for its degree programs, there are a myriad of pathways to success.

Gateway Community College

Connecticut community colleges offer diverse certificate programs with targeted curricula, ideal for those seeking to acquire skills quickly. By providing certificate programs in various sectors like healthcare, technology, business, hospitality, and more, community colleges in Connecticut play a crucial role in preparing students for the workforce, facilitating economic development, and bridging skill gaps in the state’s industries.

Getting Your Degree

Gateway Community College graduates can transition to Connecticut State Colleges and Universities. The CT Guarantee also allows for a seamless transfer of credits to private colleges and universities like Albertus Magnus, Quinnipiac University, and the University of New Haven.

Workforce Alliance (American Jobs Center) workforcealliance.biz

Workforce Alliance should be the first stop for both job seekers and businesses looking to hire or upskill their current workforce.

Skill Up for Manufacturing is designed to quickly channel unemployed and underemployed people into entry-level manufacturing jobs by providing the fundamentals that employers need in as little as 5 weeks. The program was designed with manufacturing employers who interact with students and discuss job opportunities. The program includes:

- Free 5-Week hybrid classroom & hands-on training
- Cash stipend during training
- Minimum 175 pre-apprenticeship hours
- Six Sigma certification
- OSHA 10 safety card
- Job development

The Health Careers Advancement Program (HCAP) provides tuition assistance, professional development, and job placement to eligible job seekers. Individuals who have prior healthcare industry certifications can get help to return to school, add more skills and move up the career ladder!

Hospitality Career Initiative is a partnership between the University of New Haven and the New Haven-based nonprofit Workforce Alliance, providing an immersion into the hospitality industry and job placement assistance.

State of Connecticut Program for Apprenticeships in the Trades

Careers in the trades can offer a rewarding job with good pay and opportunities for growth. A number of industries are growing rapidly and looking for more people with the right training to begin careers in fields such as electrical, elevators and conveyors, plumbing and lawn irrigation, heating, cooling and sheet metal, and glazier automotive and flat glass.
